(Field of Invention: The Sport of Golf)

Stroke Play: A player records the number of strokes he/she takes on each hole. After the match is completed, the player with the least amount of strokes wins. Match Play: The player with the least amount of strokes taken on a hole wins the hole. The player that wins more holes wins the match.

Point Scoring Accuracy Golf:

A player earns one point each time they hit a fairway in regulation. If the player hits a green in regulation, they are awarded one point, or a number of points according to how close the ball finishes to the hole. The goal, (18-72 Hole Event) of the player is to have more points than their opponent does at the end of the match, or in match play, to score more points on a hole, thus winning more holes.
